

Dear Friends,

Awesome response and huge demand by participants to our earlier Basics of Excel 2010 workshop, the XRCVC is happy to announce online workshop on the theme, 'Basics of Excel 2010 Level 2'.

There are various programs, such as Open office calc, Libre office calc available to perform complex calculations, and to maintain data base.

Microsoft Excel is one of such applications which stores wide range of data in tabular format, easy to access and navigate. It organizes calculations and generates different types of reports in one click.

In this workshop the more basic techniques and few commonly used formulae of Excel 2010 will be considered practically with the help of Open source screen reader NVDA.

Limited seats are available for the session.

Those interested should kindly register by using the link appended below.
